Bay planning commission agrees on uses for hospital-clinic zone

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission agreed Tuesday to accept a recommendation for a hospital-clinic zone.

"The board favors the hospital-clinic special use district outlined by Gulf Regional Planning Commission in terms of using a zoning change to support the medical facilities in that area," Commissioner William Tate said.

The zone as recommended by GRPC includes all for approximately 500 feet off Drinkwater Road which is not currently zoned commercial.

The zone also includes some frontage on Green Meadow Road.

The board also agreed to request GRPC to draw up an addition to the existing zoning ordinance to include the specifications of the hospital-clinic zone.

The new zoning area will allow medical, chiropractic, dental, psychiatric and psychological clinics; dentists and physicians offices; and dental and medical offices.

Tate said the number of medical related uses had been restricted because of the limited amount of space.

"We are trying to get in the things that we feel are most necessary," he said.

All uses currently allowed in residential districts will also be included.

The ordinance currently allows single-family dwellings, accessory structures, home occupations, gardens, playgrounds, parks, public buildings, schools, libraries and churches in residential areas.

Also at the meeting the commission denied a petition for a zoning change from Dr. James Crittendon to rezone a parcel of residential property to commercial.

Crittendon's request which was filed approximately nine months ago would allow him to build a doctor's clinic on property fronting on Drinkwater.

This property is included in the proposed hospital-clinic zone.

Tate made the motion for the denial of the petition adding that it was made with the intention that

Chamber directors endorse unit system

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors Tuesday night unanimously voted to endorse and support the county unit system issue to be decided by voters of Hancock County June 3.

The board also voted to work for defeat of the "ethics" amendment to the Mississippi Constitution that will also be on the ballot June 3.

The board feels this amendment will weaken the way public officeholders are prohibited from doing business with the governments they serve," said Dick Thomas, chamber president.

In a May 12 special meeting, the Chamber board had voted 8-5 against taking a stand on the unit system, and endorsed educating the public concerning what the unit system is.

At last night's meeting, several members expressed their unhappiness at the outcome of the special meeting, and John Mason presented a motion to fully endorse the unit system and "take a stand on the issue."

The board also voted to advertise the support of the unit system and the ethics amendment, and to set up a special fund to pay for the advertising through contributions.

Anyone wishing to make a contribution should contact the Chamber office at 467-9048.

Bay School district to purchase trailers for kindergarten

BY DENA BISNETTE

Instead of building a proposed kindergarten building at Waveland Elementary School, the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District will use trailers to house kindergarten classes until a long-range building plan can be implemented.

The plan, according to Superintendent J.D. McCullough, is about five years old and was briefly resurrected about a year ago. It included the construction of an auditorium and bandhall for Bay High, renovations at existing schools and a possible new school at either elementary or junior high-high school level, whichever is most needed.

He said a trailer can be purchased for from $28,000 to $29,000 for a single unit and from $38,000 to $42,000 for a double unit, depending on whether restroom facilities are included.

Inspection of proposed interim facilities for kindergarten, which included First Baptist Church and St. Rose de Lima Church, showed that the facilities were unsuitable or did not meet State Department of Education specifications, he said.

After McCullough's report, Board President Betty Diboll asked for a decision on whether to construct the proposed building or use trailers.

The district has received a funding commitment of $350,000 from the Bay St. Louis City Council. Objections to the use of trailers came from Bay Councilman James Thrifflie, who favored construction of a permanent facility; Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frackiewicz Jr., who said trailers are illegal in the city except in designated mobile home parks and on construction sites; and Board Member L.D. Carter.

Carter was the only board member voting against buying the

SCOUTING WAS HIS LIFE—One of the proudest days in the life of the late Warren E. (Buck) Buehler, left, was in 1969 when his eldest son Larry, right, became an Eagle Scout. His youngest son Andy became an Eagle Scout in 1977. His daughter Sue Ann Buehler Fayard was a Brownie, and a Girl Scout while daughter Karen Buehler Ponder was a Brownie, Girl Scout and a Cadet. On Memorial Day, The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 of Bay St. Louis, sponsor of Boy Scout Troop 208, dedicated a scout house in memory of Buck Buehler. At the dedication ceremonies his wife Gertrude Monti Buehler stated, "In our home it was Scouting in the morning, at noon, and at night. Buck was proud of his children, and of all the boys who came into our home involved in Scouting. Their successes always thrilled him."

Leaky office roof prompts CD employee resignation

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors' attention has been called to a leaky roof at the old Valena C. Jones School because a Civil Defense employee has resigned.

The old school presently houses the Bay St. Louis police, fire and maintenance departments; Bay-Waveland Hancock County Civil Defense Department, Hancock County Senior Citizens, the Bay St. Louis office of Mississippi State Employment Service and other offices.

Dorothy Bielstein, who has served for more than eight years as Civil Defense clerk-typist and assistant to Director Robert Boudin, submitted a letter of resignation to the board Wednesday.

Bielstein's letter stated that she is resigning because the condition of the building aggravates several allergies so much that she is unable to continue working there.

She said the roof of the building leaks, causing dampness as well as the mildew and mold to which she is allergic.

In addition, she told the board she feels "very little is being done" toward correcting the problem.

Beat Five Supervisor James Travirca said he had discussed the problem with Bay St. Louis Mayor

Victor Frackiewicz Jr., but has been unable to reach him to work out some arrangement for repairs.

The city owns the building and must approve any arrangements for repair.

"It seems to me that if you're losing a good employee because the roof leaks, then you should get the roof fixed," Sheriff Ronald Peterson said.

Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro pointed out that the board does not know how much longer the Civil Defense office will remain quartered in the old school.

"I understand Frackiewicz wants the place for his maintenance crew," Perniciaro said.

Frackiewicz said the city is looking at a long-term plan that may involve reducing the amount of space available for Civil Defense to move in Gulf Coast Community Action Agency and shift the police department to the front section of the building.

The mayor said the roof problem extends to all parts of the building except the section used by senior citizen programs.

Repair funds have been budgeted and Travirca will help prepare specifications for an advertisement for bids, he added.

Beat One Supervisor Bert Cour-rege said the office should be moved to the present county jail when the new jail is finished.

The board agreed to accept Bielstein's resignation with regret.

Lynnette Carbon was hired to succeed Bielstein on a written recommendation from Boudin.

The board also passed a unanimous resolution commending Bielstein for her service to the county.

In other business, the board:

—Went on record endorsing the candidacy of Circuit Judge J. Rubie Griffin for Southern District State Supreme Court judge and agreed to

The family requests memorial contributions be made to American Cancer Society or Trinity Episcopal Church in New Orleans.

Third hearing set on water district

BY DENA BISNETTE
 The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has set a third public hearing on a proposed water conservation district.

The second hearing was held Wednesday, and although no objections were heard, some questions were brought up that resulted in a board vote for another hearing.

The hearing will be 10 a.m. June 26 in the courthouse boardroom.

Wednesday's hearing was called after a dispute between L.J. Breaux, a representative of Pearl River Basin Development District, and James Head, director of Gulf Regional Planning Commission, regarding whether or not services will be duplicated by the new district and Pearl River.

The third hearing was set after Breaux reported that Pearl River expects to have a complete list of the county's free-flowing wells and their locations by middle or late June.

The board is particularly concerned about the wells and the amount of water that could be saved if the wells can be capped.

The board is also concerned about possible costs of setting up the district. Board President A.A. Kellar had voted against doing so because of a potential tax increase.

Kellar said the board had, over the past six years, approved resolutions supporting legislation on water supply protection but had never before been asked to raise taxes to provide funding.

Kellar and Beat Five Supervisor James Travira voted against having a third hearing.

Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge, voting for the hearing, said he did not mind having another public hearing but did not want to obligate funding at Wednesday's meeting. Also voting for an additional hearing were Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner and Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro.

St. Ann Catholic Church

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Lambert Stack, ST.

"He who does what God wills does enough; he who knows God is his Father need know no fear."

—Reverend John Heneghan

Father Stack is reminding everyone preparing for Confirmation, classes will be held 7 p.m. June 10 in the parish hall, the second Tuesday of the month for June only. June 1 the 9:30 a.m. Mass at St. Ann Church is St. Ann - St. John Altar Society Communion mass which will be offered for all members living and deceased.

Ladies of St. Ann - St. John Parishes and friends are invited to join the "Granny Squares" who meet the second and fourth Thursday of each month in the parish hall.

Patterns, materials and new ideas will be appreciated. Purpose is to enlarge the annual Christmas Boutique. Bring your lunch. Time—10 a.m. till 3 p.m.

The annual rummage sale usually held in June will be later on this summer. However, useable items of clothing, shoes, furniture, toys, books, appliances and odds and ends are being accepted at the rectory or church now.

International theme to mark piano recital

A program of international music will highlight the 15th annual spring piano and organ recital for students of Kathleen Asher and Debora Estapa Sunday.

The event is scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. at the Asher Studio, US-90 W, Asherville.

Theme of the recital is 'Around The World.' Rev. John O'Brien, native of Ireland and pastor of St. Clare Catholic Church in Waveland, will offer an Irish invocation.

Rev. Vernon Knight of Lutheran Church of The Pines, Waveland, will close the program with an international benediction.

Are your funeral arrangements guaranteed if you move?

David Riemann, President

Most families never consider it. We feel it is a very important aspect of funeral preplanning. Regardless where you move, or how inflation may have increased funeral costs, we guarantee you will receive the same arrangements at no additional charge in your new location.

You can feel safe knowing your wishes will be carried out as planned with no detail missed.

Many families preplan with us for this reason alone.

Why not stop by or give us a call? Our staff will be happy to answer any questions or provide you with additional information at no charge or obligation.

Chalmette excavations enhance Gen. Jackson's military reputation

The new Chalmette Floodwall and levee work in St. Bernard Parish, La., to protect the historic Chalmette Battlefield area — completed April 19 — not only provides the area with greater flood protection but also resulted in new discoveries on the battlefield itself.

Work on the floodwall and levee setback began in January, 1985, after the New Orleans District, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers made a historic and archeological study of the potential impacts of constructing a levee setback and a floodwall at the Chalmette Battlefield below New Orleans on the Mississippi River.

The battlefield is the site of the Battle of New Orleans, fought from December 23, 1814 until January 8, 1815, between British forces and American forces commanded by General Andrew Jackson. It is now part of the Jean Lafitte National Historic Park.

A part of the Mississippi River and Tributaries Flood Control Project, the Chalmette levee was found to be in a potentially unstable position, and a levee setback was planned to increase the distance between the levee and the bank.

A study was conducted to insure that the construction of the setback would not damage the National Park while still providing maximum flood protection for the area.

A levee setback was constructed beginning at the downstream edge of the battlefield area.

A levee has been in place along the riverbank in the area since the 18th century. Prior to construction of the setback and floodwall, a study was needed to assess the project's potential damage to archeological and historic structural remains in the construction area.

The assessment study was conducted in accordance with the Historic Preservation Act of 1974 and the National Historic Preservation Act of 1980, and in consultation with the National Park Service, the Louisiana State Historic Preservation Officer, and the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation.

Until 1983, it was believed that approximately 860 feet of the battlefield had been lost to riverine erosion and previous levee construction. But the 1983 discovery of the foundation of the Rodriguez House established that no more than 180 feet of the original American rampart line has been lost.

The National Park Service, assisted by the Tennessee Valley Authority, undertook a three-part study funded by the New Orleans District to assess whether gun emplacements and other battlefield features known from early 19th century maps existed within the zone afected by the construction.

Background studies, including in-depth study of maps dating from 1807 to 1907, established that the forward redoubt and Battery 1 of the Chalmette Battlefield have indeed been lost to river bank erosion.

These background studies also determined that Battery 3 was probably located within 300 feet north of the present levee.

Battery 3, commanded by two of Jean Lafitte's lieutenants, figured prominently in the Battle of New Orleans. The battery held two 24 pound naval guns.

This feature was then tied into existing interpretive maps to aid in determining the physical location of Battery 2. This established that Rodriguez Canal, part of the American line, had been altered in the 20th century.

These findings contribute to the growing interpretation of General Jackson as a successful tactician. Excavation in Battery 3 located original cypress fence palings and a 4-foot raised gun platform, known as a "banquette," behind the palings.

These findings help prove that the American defenses in the Battle of New Orleans were a calculated effort to halt the British advance at a location of American choosing and not just a spontaneous response to British attack.

daughter; Lionel Fayard, son-in-law; Andy Buehler, son; and Karen Buehler Ponder, daughter. Others attending the dedication were the members of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, sponsors of Troop 208, Auxiliary and family members. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

SCOUT LEADER'S FAMILY—Among the family members attending the dedication of the Warren E. (Buck) Buehler scout house were from left, Andy Buehler, son; Mrs. Warren E. (Gertrude) Buehler, wife; Karen Buehler Ponder, daughter; Sue Ann Buehler Fayard, daughter; and Lionel Fayard, son-in-law. Missing from the photo is son Larry Buehler. All are residents of Bay St. Louis except daughter Sue Ann and her husband who reside in Riverdale, La. Buehler died November 12, 1985, and served in the scouting program for 47 years. In 1975, he was awarded the Silver Beaver, the second highest award in scouting. The Scout Troop is sponsored by the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, which Buehler served two years as commander and over 30 years as an executive committeeman, and was a post color bearer at the time of his death. 16th Section revenue up, according to Molpus

Dick Molpus, a native of Philadelphia, spoke to seniors at HNC explaining duties of the Secretary of State of Mississippi.

He has even received letters regarding Libya, but told the writers he was Secretary of State in Mississippi, not the USA.

This department of state government has three main functions:

1) Administrative - to issue corporate charters, write and distribute a souvenir booklet of Mississippi and sell the state's stocks and bonds, among a few;

Molpus heads the consumers' protection from fraudulent investments and investors.

2) This department is the focal point for all elections in the state.

3) This work supervising 16th section lands has brought the biggest changes to the state in recent history.

The changes were due to the expertise of the Hancock County Public School's Superintendent Terrell Randolph.

In 1978 the Legislature passed a 16th Section law requiring a fair price according to the value of the land for all leases.

In 1984, due to the assistance of Molpus, the local school boards were given the job of supervising the leases, instead of the board of supervisors.

Now, in 1986 school boards can be sued if they do not get the going lease rate for the 16th Section lands.

"No more nepotism nor politics, and any system not renewing leases at the 'going price,' will be sued. Louisville is being sued now by the Secretary of State's Department."

Molpus, also related the history of the 1982 Educational Reform Act. It began with less than 10 people interested in upgrading Public Education. So, one person can help. These proved that there is a correlation between education and income. The counties rated first in education in Mississippi (Hinds) has the highest income in the state. Hancock ranks 14th in education and 10th in income.

However, the 1982 Educational Reform Act has never been fully implemented. The teachers' salaries are still number 50 in the USA. The act states that they should be equal to the Southeast average. We are not!

Teachers need security, prestige and more pay. Schools need equality in funding throughout the state. Alcorn County gets $5,000, Hancock $30,000, and Pass Christian $55,000 from their tax base. This needs equal action.

The new accreditation requirements will probably force some schools to consolidate. We, also, must reduce the 60 percent of votes required for a school bond issue to pass to 50 percent. Such is true on highway, building, and all other bonds—only school issues in Mississippi require 60 percent.

Dick Molpus ended his talk with great hope for the future of Mississippi. The "Transactors" are slowly being replaced by the "Transformers." The "Status Quo" politicians, the Governmental System of Mississippi, and the need for the Constitutional Reform are holding Mississippi back. The young leaders are going to change and Mississippi will one day be in the top group of states—no longer number 50, he said.

IN TIMES OF TIGHT MONEY AND ARTIFICIALLY DEPRESSED INTEREST RATES, SINCERE CONCERN IS BEING EXPRESSED IN ALL AREAS. Our farm economy is faltering. The working man is struggling or is unemployed, while retirees and senior citizens are wondering about their future.

On Tuesday, June 3, it is extremely important for each of us to go vote, in order to create a mandate to correct the deplorable effects these simulated conditions have on the average working American.

PLEASE VOTE FOR AND ELECT
LARRY L. ALBRITTON
U.S. REPRESENTATIVE
Fifth District

Pd. pol. adv. by Larry L. Albritton, candidate-U.S. Representative, Fifth District

SURE, WE CAN ALL STAY HOME ON JUNE 3RD.

But we might regret it for the next 10 years.

On June 3, residents of South Mississippi will elect a new State Supreme Court Judge.

This will be the most important election you will vote in this year. Because the person you elect will be in office until 1996.

That's why we need to elect someone who knows the law. Who understands South Mississippi. Someone who is willing to burn the midnight oil to get the job done.

Jon Swartzfager is the man for the job.

Jon Swartzfager
knows the law.

Twenty years. That's how long Jon Swartzfager has been a practicing attorney in Mississippi's state and federal courts.

Jon has also served as a Municipal Court Judge. So he's seen the courtroom from both sides of the bench.

He has the knowledge we need to sort out the complex issues of modern-day law. And he has the experience to make sure those issues are decided in a fair and impartial manner.

Jon Swartzfager has the experience to be Mississippi's next Supreme Court Judge.

Jon Swartzfager
understands South Mississippi.

Jon Swartzfager was born and raised in Laurel. He and his wife and three children still live there today.

In fact, South Mississippi has been home to the Swartzfager family for five generations. Jon Swartzfager grew up here, graduated from the Laurel public school system, and later studied at Millsaps and Ole Miss.

Jon Swartzfager is a South Mississippian. He's been your neighbor and friend for 45 years. He's taught in your classrooms and Sunday Schools. He's practiced law in your courts for two decades.

Jon Swartzfager has spent his life here. He understands South Mississippi.

Jon Swartzfager
will put in the hours.

The Mississippi Supreme Court reviews over 1000 cases each year.

Your next Supreme Court Judge must be willing to put in the long hours needed to get the job done. Otherwise, how can you expect to get the justice you deserve?

Jon Swartzfager is a vital, dedicated man who knows what hard work is all about.

He'll review each case carefully and thoughtfully, on its own merits, using all the resources of his twenty years of legal experience.

And there's one thing you can count on... he won't sleep until the work is done, and done right. Jon Swartzfager will put in the hours.

This election is vital to your future.

The June 3 election is vital to Mississippi's future. In many areas of South Mississippi, the Supreme Court race will be the only item on the ballot on June 3. But that doesn't make this election any less important to you.

The Mississippi Supreme Court sets the state's legal climate. That's why this election means so much to Mississippi.

Let's elect someone who has the experience, understanding, and energy to get the job done.

On June 3, let's go out and elect Jon Swartzfager our next Mississippi Supreme Court Judge.

'Ethics Amendment' should be defeated

House Concurrent Resolution No. 63 on Tuesday's ballot can be very misleading by just reading the first few lines.

State Senator Gene Taylor has taken a strong stand against the resolution which is referred to as the 'ethics amendment.'

Taylor and others have been taking issue with the amendment and rightfully so.

Tuesday night, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Board of Directors voted unanimously to encourage voters to defeat the amendment in the June 3 election.

The amendment if passed, as we have been able to understand it, will give elected officials a right to do business with the governmental entity on which they serve.

If all qualified electors of Hancock County would read the entire resolution, we feel their vote will be against the ethics amendment.

There are just too many loopholes in the amendment for elected officials.

To vote against the amendment, punch Number 169 on your voting machine ballot, thus registering your rejection of House Concurrent Resolution No. 63.

SPECIAL SESSION AIMED AT HELPING EDUCATION

I have called a special legislative session for this week in order to end the confusion regarding the Highway Department for next year and also to help alleviate some of the financial burden facing other vital state agencies.

After talking to university presidents, the mental health director, new welfare commissioner and junior college presidents, I recommended that the Legislature, during a short session, take the following funding actions:

- Fund the Highway Department at $424 million.
- Appropriate an additional $5 million to the smaller state universities, which have had to take cuts as high as 28 percent.
- Appropriate an additional $3.6 million to mental health to assist with the regional mental health centers and the State Hospital at Whitfield.
- Appropriate an additional $2 million to the Welfare Department to reduce the number of county workers who will be laid off. This action is an effort to keep our error rate down and not jeopardize any federal funds.

- Appropriate an additional $1 million to junior colleges, the bulk of which would go into academic programs.

- Appropriate an additional $400,000 to the Gulf Coast Research Lab.

These figures are based on six weeks of traveling throughout our state. They are my best judgement on funding the basic necessities for these agencies. And this budget will not cripple the highway department.

Like most Mississippians, I share a concern for good highways. But I don't think education or these other needs should take a back seat to highways. I have expressed a willingness to the Highway Commission that I will work with them after the special session on seeking methods for long-term funding and planning and prioritizing of a highway program for the future.

A SORRY MESS—Four 'sportsmen' fishing on the Hancock County side of the Bay Bridge at 4 a.m. Sunday left this unsightly mess of aromatic catfish and stings for the motoring public to enjoy as they drive through our scenic area. The careless and irresponsible attitudes of a few could result in the deprivation of the privilege of fishing from the two-mile bridge across the Bay of St.

Louis. This is a hazard to motorists, cyclists, runners, fishermen, as well as pedestrians. Perhaps a periodic police patrol and a few tickets for littering could eliminate the unsightly mess. This could also preserve the right of fishing for those who do care and leave no debris on the bridge. (Staff photo by Jeffrey Favre)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Voters' vision clouded by last-minute rumors

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

Now we have seen it all! According to Sunday's Sea Coast Echo, those who would perpetuate the outmoded and wasteful one-man beat system of county government evidently will deny the facts, and at the last minute resort to "rumors" or other devices.

Rumor and device No. 1: Promote and capitalize on the rivalry and competition between Bay St. Louis and Waveland by implying that our supervisors, who are honorable men, could not or would not, as a board (unit), be fair in the distribution of funds, but that Waveland would come up short.

Answer: Our supervisors as individuals with the beat system in the past, admittedly have practiced favoritism, apparently toward their political friends (certainly not to all of us) But, surely as a board or unit they would be fair and just to all.

Rumor No. 2: That the unit or board method is a mystery and is complicated and hard to understand. Answer: This is a myth with no basis in fact. Our supervisors know that they have always governed as a unit or board in all matters except that of roads and bridges. Is it a lack of knowledge that gives them pause, or a lack of desire to give up some of their political power, i.e. such as they have in the individual expenditure of funds?

Rumor No. 3: That the implementation of the Board System of Roads and Bridges would be more expensive. The facts are: Every competent (and there have been many) impartial study which has been presented over the last 50 years concludes to the contrary, and the recent Chamber of Commerce public forum with qualified, experienced engineers and administrators proved that counties adopting the Board (Unit) system have saved hundreds of thousands of dollars each year.

Why then all the commotion over employing an administrator of roads and bridges from outside the county under the authority of the board? The supervisors apparently approve an administrator for Hancock Hospital.

Rumor No. 4: That the board (unit) system could not or would not respond expeditiously to areas of the county ravished by hurricanes or to other emergencies.

The facts are:
1) The counties which have adopted the board or unit system have found just the opposite to be true.

2) If our supervisors are now telling us that they could not or would not adopt policies to compel the county administrator, who is responsible to them, to utilize all county equipment and resources immediately, anywhere in the county, in response to the degree of need, they are admitting that they are incompetent to govern as a board (unit). I do not believe this - do you?

Rumors, rumors, rumors! - last minute rumors! The people are smarter than some seem to think, and are not going to be "taken in" by these myths; but if enough of them should become confused at this late hour by the smoke and dust, just remember, that the days of the outmoded Beat System are numbered.

It has been weighed in the balances and found wanting. I think, even our supervisors know this.

Sincerely
Dwyn M. Mounger

June 3 election an opportunity for giant step forward

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor,

On June 3, Hancock County citizens have the opportunity to take a giant step forward by voting for the unit system of county government.

By eliminating duplication of services, the unit system would allow our Board of Supervisors to pool their abilities to help make our county run more effectively.

For instance, under the present "beat" system our supervisors are forced to purchase road repair equipment, etc. for each of their respective beats. Thus, we the taxpayers are required to pay for five of a particular item when one would work for the entire county.

The unit system, though, would allow our supervisors to adopt county-wide plans for our roads and the like so that they could use the best equipment throughout Hancock County.

This would give our Board of Supervisors the power it needs to increase the cost-effectiveness of its programs, thus saving money now wasted.

It is clearly time for a change. By giving the supervisors the power to plan more efficiently, to share in capital costs, and to use their administrative talents to the fullest, the unit system would not only save money but also provide incentives for the continued growth of Hancock County. Please vote for the unit system.

Sunday will be Beachfront Festival Day in Bay St. Louis.

All types of entertainment, food booths, craft booths and other events are planned for the day.

A larger than ever display of old photos of Bay St. Louis will be one of the attractions.

So, don't forget The Beachfront Festival Sunday.

Several years ago a dedication was held for a historical marker on the grounds of the Hancock County Courthouse for Publius Rutilius Rufus Pray.

A resident of Hancock County, the native of the State of Maine was elected to the office of High Court of Errors and Appeals in 1837.

We realize that is going back a long way in history, as Hancock County was a Territorial County in 1812, five years before statehood in 1817.

In 1820, Hancock County's total population was listed at 2,000 people, but, one must remember it was a much larger area then. It included all of Harrison, Pearl River, and all of Stone counties in addition to parts of other counties as we know them today.

Judge Frey was last Mississippi Supreme Court judge to serve from Hancock County and he died in 1841.

That was a very long time ago for Hancock County to have someone serve in such a high state as judgeship.

On Tuesday, Circuit Court Judge J. Ruble Griffin will be seeking a position on the Mississippi Supreme Court-Southern District.

Judge Griffin has been residing in Bay St. Louis for many years, and we wish him well in Tuesday's election.

Schools are closing very rapidly for summer, and more and more of our youth will be on the streets involved in summer activities.

Motorists are asked to be extremely careful while driving, and our youth too should pay attention as they walk or ride their bicycles on our roadways.

We hope all our youngsters will have a good summer.

Highway engineer traces commission history

May 28, 1986
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

I would like to correct for the people of Mississippi some statements which have been made concerning Mississippi's first major highway program in the late 1930's, during which time the Highway Commission was temporarily made an appointive body. Implications have been made that the appointed commission was responsible for getting Mississippi "out of the mud."

The fact is that Governor Hugh White promised the Legislature in January, 1936 if they would pass a law changing the time of the commissioners' races from the summer of 1936 to coincide with those of the governor and other state officials in 1939, he would appoint all three of the commissioners who were then serving elective terms to new terms extending through the 1939 elections. Prior to that time, highway commissioners had been elected in off years.

This law was passed and Governor White promptly appointed the three commissioners who were already in office under the elective system—F. L. Linker of Oxford to the Northern District Post, Brown Williams of Philadelphia to the Central District Post, and Hiram Patterson of Monticello to the Southern District Post.

One change occurred when Commissioner Brown Williams died in the fall of 1937 following several months' illness, and Sidney T. Roebuck of Newton was appointed to fill the unexpired term.

The same law that provided for temporary appointment also stipulated that commissioners would again be elected in November, 1939, to take office January, 1940. Commissioners Patterson and Roebuck were re-elected. Commissioner Linker was replaced by T. J. Lowery of Houston.

So it was actually the elected commissioners who initiated and assembled the first $40 million highway construction program in 1936 and a second program of approximately $48 million in 1938.

About this time a road life study was conducted, which estimated that the roads built under these programs would last an average of 32 years. Nobody believed this at the time, but it proved to be true; and the commission of the late 1960's and early 1970's inherited thousands of miles of highways needing extensive rehabilitation or outright replacement. This was accomplished during the 1970's with a highway program passed in 1969.

Time has dimmed the memory of people on many of these facts, and my intention is to bring out these highlights so that people may take a new look and better judge whatever they want to do in the future.

Voters have opportunity to preserve ethical protections in the 1890 Constitution

(The following article resulted from a grant from the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association.)

By Paul M. Neville
Jackson Attorney

On June 3, voters will find on the ballot a proposed amendment to the Mississippi State Constitution dealing with ethics.

Taken at face value, the amendment appears commendable and worthy of support. However, its legal effect would be to radically alter permissible conduct for public officials and their dealings with the levels of government they serve. It can be argued that this proposed amendment is a greater variance from existing law than the amendment on ethics which was overwhelmingly rejected by the people in November of 1984.

The 1890 Constitution of this state has several provisions which prohibit public officials from entering into business contracts with the State of Mississippi, if such contracts have been engendered through their appropriation powers. Section 109—the provision which the proposed amendment would invalidate—prohibits a state legislator or other public official from having an interest in any contract which results from an action taken by the Legislature or a board of which he is a member.

When an individual offers himself for public office and is elected, he is vested with the stewardship of the public monies for the general good.

If he can also receive those same funds through a separate contract, a conflict of interest exists. Section 109 of the Mississippi Constitution seeks to avoid just such conflicts of interest by prohibiting these private contracts at all levels of government.

This constitutional provision has been strictly enforced down through the years by the Mississippi Supreme Court.

That Court has routinely held that such conflict-of-interest contracts are prohibited—even when the contract is beneficial to the state or where there is no evidence of any wrongdoing.

The Court based its decisions on the simple, universal principle that a public servant should serve only one master—that of the general good. The very existence of a private interest contrary to the general interest is to be avoided at all costs.

This system has worked without serious challenge for over 90 years in Mississippi. In 1981, the Mississippi Supreme Court upheld the conviction of State Senator Nap Cassibry, who had been convicted of violating the Constitution by contracting with a state agency.

At about the same time, Senator Bill Burgin of Columbus was convicted of federal charges involving allegations of similar self-dealing with state governmental agencies.

These convictions started a movement by certain state legislative leaders to loosen Section 109 of the constitution to allow business dealings between legislators and state agencies.

The first step came with the 1983 "ethics" law, purportedly seeking to codify what was a conflict of interest and what was not.

That statute, through loopholes, actually permitted any of the contractual relations that had been prohibited for 94 years, particularly on the part of state legislators. However, no effort was made at that time to alter the state constitution.

Its original prohibitions, embodied in Section 109, stood unchanged. Because it was apparent that the 1983 law was unconstitutional, the legislative leadership in 1984 proposed a new constitutional amendment to replace the present Section 109.

The principal feature of that proposed amendment would allow legislators broad authority to contract with agencies of state government. After a vigorous fight led by almost unanimous newspaper editorial opposition to the amendment, the amendment was defeated at the polls with over 58 percent of the people voting against it.

The legislative leaders went back to the drawing board, and in the waning hours of the 1986 legislative session, they brought out of a conference committee the proposed constitutional amendment which will appear on the ballot in June 1986.

It was hurried through the legislature in less than a day and was scheduled for a vote in the June primary rather than the usual ballot spot for amendments in November.

The legislative leaders answer the charges that they are rushing the vote on this new ethics amendment by citing a lower court ruling declaring the 1983 law to be unconstitutional.

Few legal scholars have ever doubted that the 1983 law was unconstitutional, even on the day it was passed.

The court opinion referred to was rendered by Judge James Arden Barnett in April of 1986. In holding that the 1983 statutory exceptions to Section 109 were unconstitutional, the judge found that Section 109 "is not a harsh thing. It is a very clear and concise direction without any equivocation that the public official may not on one hand be a part of the body which appropriates money and at the same time be on the other end in another job or a contract and receive the money which he either voted for or had the opportunity to."

Judge Barnett admonished all public officials that "it is perhaps better not to see how much we can get away with under the law, but how perfectly we can keep the public trust."

Judge Barnett's admonition was lost on the legislative leadership. The amendment they hurried through in the final days of the legislative session will allow public officials at all levels of government to avoid the operation of our ethics laws by simply being careful not to vote on the matter in which they have a financial interest.

As long as it cannot be proved that they participated in the decision, then they are free to contract for the tax dollars that have been appropriated.

Even if one overlooks the overriding ethical consideration of allowing profiteering from public office, significant fairness questions should be asked.

The regular businessman who earns a living by selling goods or services to government will suddenly find himself in competition with public officials for the public dollar.

That businessman then confronts the unfair situation of competing for an agency's business with that agency's boss.

If the businessman is to compete on an equal basis, it may require that he bring an influential public official into his business as a partner.

The extra costs of these unproductive partners will be reflected in the price of goods and services paid by the state—and ultimately will be paid by the taxpayer.

The limited resources available to state government will be stretched further in order to provide extra profits to public officials.

It is essential that the people of Mississippi inform themselves about this upcoming constitutional amendment.

Those who voted against a similar amendment in 1984 and those who generally support ethical government in Mississippi should turn out and cast a resounding "NO" vote in June of 1986 against the "unethical" amendment.

Let us see how perfectly we the voters can keep the public trust.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—Gov. Bill Allain's gambit to snatch $10 to $12 million from the state highway department to sprinkle among a few of the starving minions of state government is a classic case of robbing Peter to pay Paul.

Nothing that is happening right now in the state highway debacle makes sense. The people should demand some answers as to how we got into this fix where the Legislature had to be summoned back to Jackson a little over a month after it adjourned its extended regular session for a rerun of the Great Highway Robbery.

Both the lawmakers and Allain should be charged with irresponsibility for what took place back in mid April, when the lawmakers went home with the state highway program unfunded.

Allain must be blamed for vetoing the appropriation at the last minute because of his weird reasoning that a few million dollars out of the highway department appropriation should be put over into the state general fund, as though it would make any appreciable difference.

The Legislature had two choices at that stage: either override Allain's veto or come up with something different. It did neither, instead copping out and going home and leaving highways unfunded.

Obviously Allain now has the Legislature hostage to his demand for another chunk ($10 million having already been taken out of the highway department's FY '86 budget) of the highway funds. They will come here this week and give him the money and quickly go home to save further embarrassment because of the additional expense of holding a special session.

But the key point is: nothing will be solved in the long range problem of providing an essential 4-lane arterial highway program which will tie together all parts of the state.

Allain keeps talking about the need for highways to compete for economic and industrial development, but he has never once come forward with any specific recommendation to launch a new state highway program.

He has made the three-member elected highway commission his strawman for the past year or so, talking vaguely about replacing the present commission with an appointive Department of Transportation.

Allain is certainly not the first governor who has come forth with the idea that Mississippi no longer needs to hold on to the elective commissioner system, the only one of its kind left in America.

Theodore Bilbo was saying the same thing way back in the late 1920's. John Bell Williams, who was not much for other governmental changes, also didn't like the idea of the elective highway commissioners getting their hands on his $300 million highway program he pushed through in 1969.

Nor did Bill Waller want the three-member elective commission to run the four-lane "corridor" highway program he launched in 1972-73. Waller made a fight in the Legislature to add two gubernatorially appointed members to the existing elective commission, and won considerable backing.

But the politically potent highway commission, realizing it had to yield on something, came up with the idea of making State Rep. E. L. Boteler, the respected chairman of the House Highways Committee, director of the State Highway Department, easing the pressure for a change in the system.

Tragically, in 1976, Boteler, the former paragon of virtue in the Legislature, turned out to have a desire to mingle public funds with his own, and he became the first state official in a half century to be charged and convicted of embezzlement.

Meantime, after the 750-mile corridor program had gotten off to a good start, it became evident in a year or two that $600 million was vastly inadequate to build the network of arterial highways, and the real cost was going to be around $2.5 billion.

With the corridor program almost 25 percent complete, the Legislature panicked and stopped funding it in 1981. However, the highway department has continued to add little pieces to the corridors with available funds. Keen observers of state highway needs still say the corridor plan is still the best idea to come along and should be pursued to provide major transportation routes to all parts of the state not reached by the interstate highways.

For some strange reason, Allain has adopted an adamant position against giving the highway department any new bonding authority to step up construction, even though some of his advisers have urged him to do so. His blanket opposition, some believe, is a consequence of his negative feeling toward Attorney General Ed Pittman, who had publicly proposed a highway bond issue.

calculated the state could issue $280 million in highway bonds without raising one cent in additional taxes. That's because of the refunding of some $440 million in highway bonds Cole had engineered a year ago.

If the state levied five cents a gallon additional gasoline tax instead of letting the consumer get the full benefit of the windfall from vastly lower gasoline prices, bonding authorities estimate the state could issue $750 million in bonds to make a big dent in the corridor program.

The consensus now is Allain can't win a head-on battle to abolish the elective highway commission, because his whole strategy is one-dimensional.

But if he offered a bargaining chip, such as agreeing to a major new bonding program if lawmakers would reform the system of administration of highway funds, it could bring some sense out of this debacle.

Sincerely,

criticism from those who say our highways are not as good as those in neighboring states. In most cases people who travel out of state have only used the interstates, and sometimes maybe one or two other major highways.

I personally have travelled the backroads in all of our bordering states, and if any person would get out and travel those roads they would have a different opinion on how our highways compare.

The people may or may not choose a different form of government. But it isn't fair to run down a group that has performed as well as our highway commissioners have performed over the years.

I was an eyewitness to most of the events I have mentioned, beginning work for the Highway Department in 1932 and remaining until World War II broke out. MAKE TIME FOR

A TRIP TO

THE BALLOT BOX

Mississippians have some important decisions to make on June 3.

Hancock County voters will decide whether the county is to be operated under a unit system or remain under the current beat system.

Also, on that day, we will be selecting party candidates for congressional seats, for judgeships, and we will be filling several legislative vacancies across the state.

We will also be deciding whether to amend the state's constitution. Two amendments will appear on the ballot on June 3. One revises our property tax system to permit assessment of owner-occupied residential property at ten percent of value for tax purposes rather than the fifteen percent presently assessed.

The other revises constitutional language so as to ease the conflict-of-interest restrictions presently placed on public officials.

There are five other proposed amendments to the constitution, all seven approved by the 1986 Legislature, but the other five will appear on the ballot in the November general election.

For now, Mississippians need to be aware that, even in the primary elections, they will be determining the direction of state and federal governments for years to come.

It is important that we know the candidates, the issues, and the proposed constitutional changes.

It is also important that we set aside time on June 3 for a trip to the ballot box.

Blue Grass blow-out planned at Laurel park

Bluegrass musicians and fans from all over the United States are expected in Laurel June 12, 13 and 14 at the Lonesome Pines Bluegrass Park's fifth annual June Bluegrass Festival.

Lonesome Pines is the state's largest Bluegrass Music Park and over 200 recreational vehicles are expected to spend the weekend in Laurel, where the "Osborne Brothers" will headline Friday and Saturday's show.

"It's the most remarkable thing to see all those campers in my backyard," says Mrs. Reece Owens, the park owner.

"When my late husband, Reece, and I opened the park, we hoped to see it bring enjoyment and entertainment to Mississippi. I believe we have done that and I believe that we have proven we will treat folks right."

Lonesome Pines is located on the Owens farm west of Laurel and was developed by Reece Owens, who was a prominent figure in Bluegrass Music over the southeastern states until his death last November.

"We are really excited about having the 'Osborne Brothers' this June. In case folks don't remember them, 'Rocky Top' and are considered one of the top Bluegrass groups in the world," added Mrs. Owens.

The Osbornes who joined the Grand Ole Opry in 1964 have carried their own special form of Bluegrass music all over the world, including a command performance at the White House in the 1980's.

More recently, they have appeared several times in pop concerts with symphonies; a fete many musicians would never dare. "The Osbornes have some of the finest harmony and instrumentation you will ever hear in Bluegrass and we're tickled to bring them to our park," adds Mrs. Owens.

"Lost & Found", a Virginia based group; "Saugahatchee" and "The Campbell Trio" from Alabama; and seven other groups from Mississippi and Alabama will be appearing over the weekend. "Where else can you hear 11 hours of top-notch music for only $8 a day!" Mrs. Owens also adds that the outdoor concert area under large shade trees makes the show relaxing as well as entertaining.

"Laurel and surrounding areas also feel the economic impact of the show. Lots of folks have to buy necessities in the area."

necessities in the area."

According to Owens, Laurel and Jones County really benefit from the influx of people from near-by states like Florida, Tennessee, Texas, Alabama, and Georgia. "We even have a fellow from New York state who is with us every year; not to mention people from all over Mississippi."

The show starts Thursday, June 12 at 7 p.m. but Owens says the festival really starts the week before. "We'll have camping folks here a week in advance and the fellowship and jam sessions are as much a part of the festival as the stage show."

Friday and Saturday's shows begin at 1 p.m. and should end around midnight. Three day tickets are $21 with daily tickets set at $8 for Thursday and $8 each from Friday and Saturday.

Camping is $6 per night and the park features complete bath house facilities. Festival goers are reminded to bring lawn chairs and a food concession is located on the grounds, as well as many arts and crafts vendors. More information on the show may be obtained by calling 601-729-2691 or 601-729-2749.

Situation is better than expected

Many state farmers secure financing for 1986 crops

By Eva Ann Dorris
Cooperative Extension Service

MISSISSIPPI STATE -- As Mississippi farmers made plans last winter for their 1986 crops, many were afraid that a depressed agriculture economy would affect their chances of obtaining crop financing this spring.

For some this fear has become a reality. But representatives for the state's largest agriculture financing lending institutions said the turn-down rate on loans hasn't been nearly as high as originally anticipated.

Tim Davis, second vice president of the First South Production Credit Association, which makes about 11 percent of the state's farm operating loans, said the farm loan situation looked much better than expected.

"We thought this year, with the lower commodity prices and the land values, we would probably experience a turn-down rate of about 25 to 30 percent," Davis said. "But, now it looks like it is probably closer to the 10 to 15 percent range."

Clay McWilliams, vice president of the Grenada banking system of Sunburst Banks, the largest agriculture lending bank in the state, said they also were not turning down a high percentage of farmers.

"We have processed about 75 percent of our production loans and have only turned down 15 to 20 percent," McWilliams said. "However, we are not processing as many loans as we did last year because some farmers voluntarily decided not to farm this year."

Commercial banks, such as the Sunburst Bank system, finance 20 percent of all the farm operating loans in Mississippi.

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) provides 50 percent of the operating loans in the state and 13 percent of the real estate loans.

Henry Mangun, chief of farm programs division of the FmHA in Mississippi, said although the organization was processing loans as quickly as possible, it would still be another six to eight weeks before a percentage of turn-downs will be known.

"The county offices are processing loans and they just haven't had time to report all their facts," Mangun said. "Many farmers waited until they knew what was happening with the farm bill, so we got off to a slow start."

In Sunflower County, the largest farm income-producing county in the state, County Extension Agent John McCaskill said original financing reports were dismal. But more farmers have secured financing than originally thought they would.

A survey conducted by McCaskill a few weeks ago showed 30 percent of the farmers had not received financing, but felt sure they would. Another 30 percent said they had been unable to obtain crop financing.

McCaskill added that since the survey, many farmers have gotten last-minute operating loans.

"I'm seeing more fields being plowed up and farmers are getting busy," he said. "Things are looking better than I first thought they would. I believe most of the county farmers will get financing."

Amid the problems of agriculture, there are a few positive factors that are helping farmers gain eligibility for these operating loans, said Dr. Bob Williams, an economist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Farmers have made some excellent yields in the past few years and production costs are some 4 to 5 percent lower," Williams said. "These factors can help producers reach a positive cash flow level and make some profits."

According to the lenders, most of the farmers that are being turned down are failing to show this positive cash flow.

"The agencies have the money to finance the 1986 crops," Williams said. "But with the crop prices farmers are receiving, it is difficult for some farmers to show a profit possibility."

The economist added that many of the farmers who are not getting financed probably have some outstanding debts they must go back and pick up.

"When a farmer has to go back and pay interest and loan payments from previous crops, it is very difficult to show a positive cash flow on the 1986 crops," Williams said.

Williams also added that there are a lot of outstanding farm loans in the state.

"Mississippi's total farm debt is near $4.3 billion, almost double the 1979 farm debt of $2.2 billion."

CONGRESS TODAY—U.S. Representative Trent Lott, left, R-Miss., and Secretary of Education William J. Bennett discuss issues affecting Mississippi's educational system on "Congress Today," the monthly public affairs television program hosted by Lott which will air at 1 p.m., Sunday, June 1, on WLOX-TV, Channel 13.

Lott and Bennett, who began his career at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg as an assistant professor of religion and philosophy, will discuss the South's educational achievements over the past years, the teaching profession and financial aid to college students, among other issues.

Advertising Workshop planned at Gulf Park

The University of Southern Mississippi is offering an advertising workshop in July on the USM-Gulf Park Campus in Long Beach, Mississippi.

"Advertising: How To Do It" is designed to assist those who plan and buy advertising. This activity is sponsored by the USM Division of Lifelong Learning.

This workshop is for advertising managers, store managers, and the owners of businesses.

Participants will learn how to plan, budget, and implement their advertising goals.

Among the topics to be included will be (1) objectives and strategies, (2) using local market research, (3) media selection—television: pro and con; radio: pro and con; and newspapers: pro and con, (4) budgets, (5) the production of radio, television, and newspaper ads, and (6) the evaluation of individual ads and campaigns.

Ten hours of instruction will be provided and organized into five two-hour sessions from 7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. on Tuesday nights, July 1 through July 29, 1986, and the cost is $110.00. There are no prerequisites—anyone may enroll.

If you're looking for an extra-special entree for brunch or lunch or buffet supper, or when you feel like being extra-nice to the regular gatherers at the table, a good suggestion is the frittata of Spain and Italy.

In its original state the frittata - fried, as you might suppose - is a superb omelet, enhanced with various tasty ingredients, done to a turn.

Some enterprising cook or other, along the way, who probably shied away from all that last minute work, with hungry guests already at table, hit upon the idea of mixing it all up together, refrigerating it for awhile or overnight, then tossing it into the oven to bake while the biscuits or rolls or whatever also came to a nice golden turn!

Which brings us to the very best frittata I've eaten - Mary DeMetz's frittata. It's an old family recipe, enjoyed through the years, and she made quite a batch for my birthday brunch recently - and even gave me the recipe, so, here's:

MARY'S FRITTATA

¼ bunch green onions, chopped
1 large bell (green) pepper, chopped
2 medium zucchini or 2 yellow squash, chopped
1 small carton mushrooms, chopped
1½ links sliced smoked sausage or 1½ cups chopped ham
1 dozen eggs
6 oz. sharp cheddar cheese, grated
Pepper, salt to taste
Dash of Tabasco
Saute the onion, bell (green) pepper, and zucchini or squash in a little butter, and set aside. Saute the mushrooms in butter and a whiff or so of sherry. Fry off the grease from the smoked sausage or ham.
Place the onions, pepper, squash and butter mixture in a large baking pan, and spread evenly. Spread the mushrooms and sausage atop. Then, beat the eggs with the pepper and salt and Tabasco and pour over all, and sprinkle the cheese over.
Bake at 350 degrees until the center is firm, and enjoy! It's even good cold! (Eight to ten servings)

BRIDGE REPLACEMENT—The old wooden bridge at Gum Branch is being replaced by three large metal culverts on Bayou LaCrosse Road by District Four crewmen. Supervisor Sam Perniciaro, standing right, checks progress of the installation on Thursday. Perniciaro said the county received bids to construct a bridge in January with the lowest price being $17,000, which was rejected. The supervisor estimates the project will cost $5,000 in materials and using his county crew. A concrete bulkhead will be constructed at the head of the culverts. The branch empties into Bayou LaCrosse. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

ASCS Report

FARMERS REVIEW CONSERVATION NEEDS

Pearl River and Hancock County producers who have determined conservation needs on their farmland may want to contact the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and review the list of practices available under the Agricultural Conservation (ACP).

"Farmers may sign up for one of the spring ACP practices or install necessary conservation practices on their acreage conservation reserve land," county ASCS official Gennin said. The ACP sign-up period closes May 18.

Conservation practices are currently being applied on much of the farmland acres in Pearl River-Hancock Counties under the ACP. "Our program is aimed at solving high priority problems, Gennin said. To help solve these problems, he said the program authorizes up to 75 percent of the cost of the conservation practice. Eligible practices include Permanent Vegetative Cover Establishment, Water Impoundment Reservoirs, Terraces, Permanent Vegetative Cover on Critical areas and sodded waterways.

Gennin said ACP applications may be filed anytime. However, cost-share requests are considered only after the sign-up period. "This allows us to establish priorities and approve cost-share funds on practices that will result in the most conservation benefits for the dollars spent." Requests are evaluated for loss of soil and/or water, and the amount that can be saved by performing the requested practice.

Soil erosion continues to be a major problem for some farmers and with today's acreage reduction and land diversion program, the ASCS official said it is very important for producers to maintain good soil and water conservation practices on their farmland and acreage conservation reserve land.

Farmers who have severe conservation problems that need to be solved, should contact the local ASCS office as soon as possible.

County schools to open bids for additional classrooms

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Following a review of plans for a two-classroom addition to the classroom building underway, the Hancock County School board set June 23 for opening the bids.

Architect Fred Wagner presented the plans to the board Tuesday at a special meeting.

The project is expected to cost $75,000-$80,000 which includes two classrooms and corridor and modifications to present structure, Wagner said.

He also said the additional classrooms can be built in approximately three months.

"We have also written the specifications to allow the work to be done in conjunction with the six classrooms under construction at this time," Wagner said.

This would require cooperation of both contractors but Wagner said he did not anticipate any problems.

The project will include 2,000 square feet in the classrooms and corridor.

The additional two classrooms will allow for all students in the Lakeshore area to attend school on the Gulfview Elementary School campus.

Also at the meeting the board approved a residential lease on a parcel of land in Section 16-9-16 to Billy Sharp for 25 years at $236.35 per year.

Crittendon's needs would be met with the new zoning area.

In other business, the commission approved a zoning change from residential to commercial on property at the corner of St. Francis and Sycamore streets.

Property owner James Smith requested the change so he could construct a "very neat, block construction" lounge on the site.

Smith had been operating the Big 5 Lounge on the property until it was recently destroyed by fire.

New construction on the site required a zoning change.

The commissioners also approved a zoning change to allow smaller lots in a subdivision near the intersection of Boardman and Dunbar avenues.

modules. He stated that he did so because he feels that the $25,000 already spent on architectural services for the proposed kindergarten building at Waveland Elementary School would be wasted.

Board Members Cyril Glover, Reginald Robinson and Penrose voted to buy trailers. Diboll did not vote because the president of the board votes only to break a tie.

Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. said that Waveland has a trailer ordinance similar to the one used in Bay St. Louis, but a variance with that ordinance has already been granted to allow classroom trailers.

The board meets again June 9 at 7 p.m.

LET'S TALK FACTS A COUNTY UNIT SYSTEM:

1. A more efficient method of administration of county government.
2. Under this system, supervisors are responsible for all policy decisions of the county.
3. The supervisors have the authority to "customize" the system to the unique needs of Hancock County.
4. Purchasing practices, budgets and personnel are established by the supervisors.
5. All improvements are designated county-wide, be it the beach front maintenance or the Firetower Road project.

The direct results of this system would be:

1. Improved construction and maintenance procedures.
2. Direct savings in the purchase of equipment.
3. Improved savings in the purchase of material and supplies.
4. Strengthened internal control within the county government.

The county unit system would result in more efficient use of your tax dollars and allow the county to accomplish more with the same dollar spent.

Choctaws to host stick ball World Series

The World Series of the oldest field sport in North America is coming up! No, it isn't the relative newcomer, football - or even baseball. Surely, however, it is their grandsire - the ancient stickball game of the Choctaw Indians.

By conservative estimate, the game is in its 500th season!

The ball courts seen by Hernando Cortes in 1519 have long since been buried beneath the rubble of Mexico City.

But the ball game witnessed by his conquistador counterparts in their early thrusts through the southeastern United States continues to be played with primitive vigor.

While other tribes - the Cherokees and Seminoles, for example - now play an attenuated version of the game, the Choctaws of Mississippi play it in a near-pristine form.

Children learn it from their fathers. Local games and practice sessions take place anytime, in any community.

It is at the annual gathering of the Choctaws - which for centuries has been held at the time of the ripening of the new corn - that all the teams meet to determine the World's Champion.

A game is played every day during the Choctaw Indian Fair, this year July 9 through 12.

Then, about 10:30 p.m. on Saturday night, after all other ceremonies are complete, the final game is played in Warrior Stadium on the Choctaw Central Schools grounds. There is no additional charge for the games, nor, in fact, for any grandstand event beyond the gate fees of $12 for adult season ticket; $10 for students, $6 adult daily; $4 students.

Information on the fair may be obtained by writing Fair Desk, Mississippi Choctaws, Rt. 7, Box 21, Philadelphia, MS 39350, or by calling the Fair Desk at 601-556-5251.

Most valuable player in the 1838 games, Tullie Okchi Ishko, was sketched in full uniform by George Catlin.

Lloyd Nicaud named Babe Ruth league player of the week

In the second week of play for the Babe Ruth Baseball League, Hancock Bank and Waveland American Legion teams added two wins each and Southern Printing of Pass Christian upped their win record by one.

Leading the Hancock Bank to their 14-6 win over the Rotary team was Pitcher Lloyd Nicaud, who was selected as Player of the Week, May 18-24.

In that game Nicaud struck out 14 batters, including three for three at the plate. He also had four assists and two putouts.

Rotary pitcher Rocky Rhodes was the losing pitcher.

Nicaud was also the top hitter for Hancock Bank with three for three. He has batted four for seven for a .571 season average.

Other leading hitters for Hancock Bank was Cedric Walker with three for four and Cedric Smith with two for four.

Leading hitters for Rotary were Joe Lee, Greg Schuff and Greg Ladner with one hit each.

Also winning on Monday night was Southern Printing of Pass Christian with a 6-4 victory over the Bay St. Louis VFW team.

Bobby Ladner was the winning pitcher and Kevin Edwards was the losing pitcher.

REEF IMPROVEMENTS

The Commission on Wildlife Conservation reports division biologists of the Bureau of Marine Resources are developing plans to supplement a number of existing low-profile reefs and to construct several new low-profile fishing reefs along the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

According to Dr. Richard L. Leard, director of the bureau, and Dr. Fred Deegen, chief of the Fisheries Division, they have decided the reefs slated for improvement are those located along the west jetty of the Long Beach Harbor, the Courthouse Pier in Gulfport and the Biloxi Lighthouse Pier.

New reefs are scheduled to be developed off the Gulf Park Estates Pier and the Pascagoula Community Pier in Jackson County.

Dr. Leard noted work on the reefs is scheduled to be completed by the last of May.

The bureau also is presently returning shells to several oyster reefs in Mississippi's coastal waters.

This work is also scheduled for completion within the next 3 to 4 weeks, Dr. Leard stated.

SPORTS from the pressbox

Boxing has always been a very exciting and sometimes brutal sport. And one of the most exciting boxers on the scene today is the heavyweight contender from Catskill N.Y., Mike Tyson. And yes, he also could be considered one of the most brutal. He comes at his opponents with unrelenting fury and the persistence of a bull. Mike turned pro in 1985 and proceeded to knock his first 19 opponents, 12 of them in the opening round. His victory over his first top 20 opponent, Jesse Ferguson, was so impressive that the WBC propelled him to the No. 10 spot in their ratings. Although the WBC recognizes Mike, he has not yet gained the recognition he deserves from the WBA or the IBF, but he will. After all, he is still young.

For a heavyweight, Mike has quick reflexes and extremely fast hands. He also displays a great deal of stamina, evidenced by his six-round victory over Jesse Ferguson. Ferguson was the first fighter to go six rounds with Mike, and the only reason he lasted that long was because he held onto Tyson's arms, refusing to let go. The referee, after numerous warnings, disqualified Ferguson and awarded Mike the knockout.

Many say that Mike Tyson will never become a great heavyweight because he isn't tall enough. (He stands 5'10" with a reach of 72") His legs are like tree trunks and his upper body is rock solid with a neck of almost 20 inches. Despite his bulk, he is flexible and quick. Although he has never been cut as a pro, he does have some scar tissue, probably from his days as an amateur.

As far as his style, he has been compared to Rocky Marciano and Joe Frazier. He tucks his chin against his chest and keeps his hands high. He charges forward like a steam engine and delivers punishing blows to his opponents' head and midsection. One of his "victims" Sterling Benjamin, said, "It felt like a sledgehammer hit me." Tyson may very well be the division's hardest hitter.

It may be too soon to tell whether or not Mike Tyson will become a great champion, but we'll find out when he faces opposition in the form of Mike Weaver or Michael Spinks. Cuss D'Amato, his late trainer and the man who discovered him, always believed he would be, and this column agrees.

Athletic administration seminar planned

HATTIESBURG—The University of Southern Mississippi's Athletic Administration Seminar will be held June 23-27, on the Hattiesburg campus.

The seminar will be a comprehensive class designed to bring superintendents, principals, athletic directors, sports coordinators, coaches and interested persons together to share ideas and better prepare themselves to meet the increasing responsibilities of the modern secondary school athletic program.

Special emphasis will be on problems of the athletic director and coach in all levels of the educational structure, including the role of women in athletics.

Directing the course will be Dr.

Billy Slay, chairman of the USM Department of Athletic Administration and Coaching.

Registration for Administration of Athletics must be completed by June 9, 1988. Participants may register in Room 306 of McLemore Hall during any of the following times: Monday-Friday 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturday, June 7, 1988, 9-11 a.m.; or Monday, June 9, 1988, 9:30-10:30 a.m.

Formal classroom sessions will run from 8 a.m. on Monday, June 23 through 5 p.m. on Friday, June 27. Other course activities, including outside projects approved by the instructor, will be scheduled with the allotted course time.

Participants will receive three semester hours of credit in AAC870, which may be applied toward an undergraduate or graduate degree or used for teaching certificate or renewal requirements.

The tuition fee for three semester hours of graduate credit is $162 and the tuition fee for three semester hours of undergraduate credit is $132. Full fees may be paid in advance and tuition fees are subject to change without notice.

University housing may be available for intensive course participants with several options being offered, including those for couples and families.

For further information, contact the University of Southern Mississippi Division of Lifelong Learning, Southern Station Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39406-5056, or call (601) 266-4190.

Golden Eagle Soccer Camp scheduled June 15-20

HATTIESBURG—Designed to enhance the soccer-playing skills of youth beyond the recreational level, the University of Southern Mississippi's Golden Eagle Soccer Camp will be held June 15-20.

According to Sid Gonsoulin, director of USM Intramural/Recreational Sports, the camp is the "top soccer camp in the state" due to its staff of professional instructors.

"The varsity soccer coaches we have assembled represent a corps of professionals and experts," Gonsoulin said, adding, "They will teach the participants through a minimum instructor/pupil ratio to allow for more personal attention."

Gonsoulin explained that boys and girls ages 8-17 will be divided into age categories and grouped according to expertise and skill level. English Football Association full-badge Barrie Williams will lead the camp, assisted by Millsaps varsity soccer coach George Gober; Charles Long, Belhaven College varsity soccer coach; Frank Glamser, USM soccer coach; the USM soccer team; and the USM trainers.

Each participant will receive an FIFA-approved Mikasa soccer ball, camp T-shirt, and access to USM soccer fields, air-conditioned dormitories, swimming pool, sports arena, bookstore, cafeteria and student union.

Cost of the week-long camp will be $160 for full-time campers. This fee includes meals (breakfast Monday through Friday), limited accident insurance, housing, awards, recreational facilities and individual items. Day campers may attend for $130, which includes lunch each day, insurance, awards, facilities and individual items.

A $40 non-refundable deposit must be made prior to June 9. The balance is payable at registration, which will take place from 4-7 p.m. June 15 in Scott Hall on the USM campus. An orientation session for participants and their parents will begin at 7 p.m. at the registration site.

For more information or to receive an application form, contact Beverly Shaw at the USM Division of Lifelong Learning by calling (601) 266-4184 or write Southern Station Box 5136, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39406-5136.

Assessment and development of athletic attributes subject of USM seminar

HATTIESBURG—The Department of Athletic Administration and Coaching and the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at the University of Southern Mississippi will offer an Assessment and Development of Athletic Attributes Seminar July 7-11.

The seminar is designed for men and women coaches with special emphasis on the practical aspect and developing of an athlete's performance potential.

Other topics to be discussed are improving body mechanics, off-season training programs, the use and misuse of drugs, measuring body components, body composition, pre-season assessment and weight control.

The director of the course will be Dr. Billy Slay, chairman of the USM Department of Athletic Administration and Coaching.

Registration for the seminar will be held Monday, July 7, from 8-9 a.m. in the Wesley Foundation, Room 115.

Formal classroom sessions will run from Monday, July 7, through Friday, July 11. Other course activities including outside projects approved by the instructor will be scheduled.

For more information, contact the University of Southern Mississippi Division of Lifelong Learning, Southern Station Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39406-5056, or call (601) 266-4190.

UM boys golf camps set June 1-6, 8-13

Ole Miss Golf Coach Ernest Ross has lined up some serious golfing instruction for young golfers attending the 1988 Ole Miss Boys Golf Camp.

Two sessions of the camp have been planned for young golfers ages 10 through 1967 high school seniors. The first will be June 1-6, the second June 8-13. Headquarters for instruction will be The University of Mississippi Golf Club, a championship layout with large practice area, putting green, practice and traps and indoor teaching areas.

"We will stress swing fundamentals and hard work," said Ross.

The registration fee includes the cost of instruction, housing, meals, accident insurance, sun visor, camp shirt and golf balls. The fee for the 1988 camp is $250 per person.

A deposit of $50 will secure registration, with the balance paid on the day of registration.

KOSKAN EYE CLINIC

We had our cataract surgery with confidence...

...and at no cost to us!

Bill and I are on a fixed income, so we had put off important cataract surgery. Then we learned Koskan Eye Clinic performs cataract surgery with implantation of intraocular lens at no cost to patients who have met their Medicare Part B deductible (or $75.00). What a blessing! At our age, we didn't want to lose sight of all the beautiful things in our lives!

Laboratory studying oyster market standards

Development of improved oyster market standards is a prime objective of a new research project being undertaken by Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs and several universities which is being funded by the Shellfish Institute of North America (SINA).

Testing of a proposed 15 percent free liquor standard for packaged oysters is being done by GCRL, Texas A&M University, Florida State University, University of Maryland and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Dr. David W. Cook, head of the laboratory's microbiology section which is conducting the research, acknowledges the difficulty of establishing one standard which is applicable to all oysters processed in Gulf and Atlantic states.

"Oysters harvested at different times and locations will lose liquids at different rates," Dr. Cook explained. "There are no universal market level standards for free liquor in oyster packs. The only federal standards in existence today for free liquor was established over 20 years ago and specifies 5 percent allowable drain liquor immediately after packing rather than at the market level."

Since last summer, Dr. Cook and his staff have been working on a study with the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) Southeast Fisheries Center in Charleston, S.C. which analyzes oyster drip loss variables, but Dr.

Cook noted significant differences between the ongoing NMFS project and the SINA research which began in April.

"These two research efforts complement each other," Dr. Cook said. "The NMFS study takes place in a very controlled research environment...we closely monitor water conditions at the harvest site, we harvest the oysters ourselves so we know exactly where they were taken, and we package the oysters ourselves."

"In the SIMA project, we move from a research setting to an industrial setting," Dr. Cook continued. "We will analyze oysters packed in five factories, one in Mississippi, one in Alabama and three in Louisiana. Samples will be prepared under normal factory conditions, and we will conduct our tests on oysters from the same plants approximately every six weeks."

"This method will enable us to test oysters from several different locations at different times of the year under actual plant conditions, which should help us to determine if an enforceable and universally applicable free liquor ordinance can be developed," Dr. Cook stated.

GCRL is receiving $13,500 from SINA to conduct the research through the end of 1986, but Dr. Cook anticipates additional funding as the research progresses.

Summer tennis camps begin June 1 at UM

Young tennis players ages 9 to 18 attending the 1986 University of Mississippi Tennis Camps will receive expert instruction from one of the state's most successful coaching staffs.

Four sessions of tennis camp have been scheduled: June 1-5, June 8-12, June 15-19 and June 22-26. Each coed camp will provide individual instruction on the basis of tennis experience — including beginner, intermediate and advanced levels.

Information about the registration process may be obtained by writing or calling the Division of Continuing Education, The University of Mississippi, University, MS 38677; telephone 601-232-7034.

KEEPING FIT

There has been a lot of heated controversy recently on the subject of vitamin supplementation. There are those who say vitamin supplements are redundant because a balanced diet, by definition, supplies all the required daily allowances of vitamins and minerals required for a healthy body.

Since I am a writer, not a scientist, I cannot say anything profoundly scientific to settle the debate. But I do know people, and there are very few people I know and work with who regularly eat a balanced diet. In fact, according to the U.S.D.A., "50 percent of the people in the United States eat less than the recommended amounts of all nutrients."

Worse than that, we Americans do things to sabotage the good food we do eat, which actually steal the nutrients right out of it.

One of the biggest culprits of nutrient robbing is overcooking. When you put frozen spinach, or any vegetable, into a pot of water, boil it, and then pour the water down the kitchen sink, you can say goodbye to your vitamins and minerals. Whatever your fears about how a microwave works, it is actually a better way of cooking. Because microwaves cook so fast and require no added water, they don't destroy as many vitamins.

Processing is another nutrient robber. The longer your food sits on the grocery shelf the less the nutritional content.

Any kind of alcohol depletes vitamins, especially Vitamin B. Tobacco, drugs, coffee, sun, stress, and lack of sleep, are all standing in line to take your vitamins and minerals away from you too.

I strongly disagree with taking vitamins in place of food. And too much is just as bad as not enough. As much as possible, try to get nutrients from natural sources, but I cannot see any harm in supplementing your diet with a daily stress tab if you know you're not getting what your body needs.

Scenes from Annual Pass Christian Fleet Blessing

Some 75 fishing vessels of all sizes participated in the Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce's Annual Blessing of the Fleet held Sunday.

The vessels were blessed by Father Ron Herzog of St. Paul's Catholic Church, and Rev. Bronson Bryant of Trinity Episcopal Church, both of Pass Christian.

This year's King Fisherman and Queen Fisherette are John Ulrich and wife Ann Ulrich, who were selected by fellow fishermen.

Harrison County Board of Supervisor President Billy McDonald announced the prize winners for the best boat decorations.

The winners were:

Vessels 50-65 feet: first place, Maria Mavar, second place, On Time.

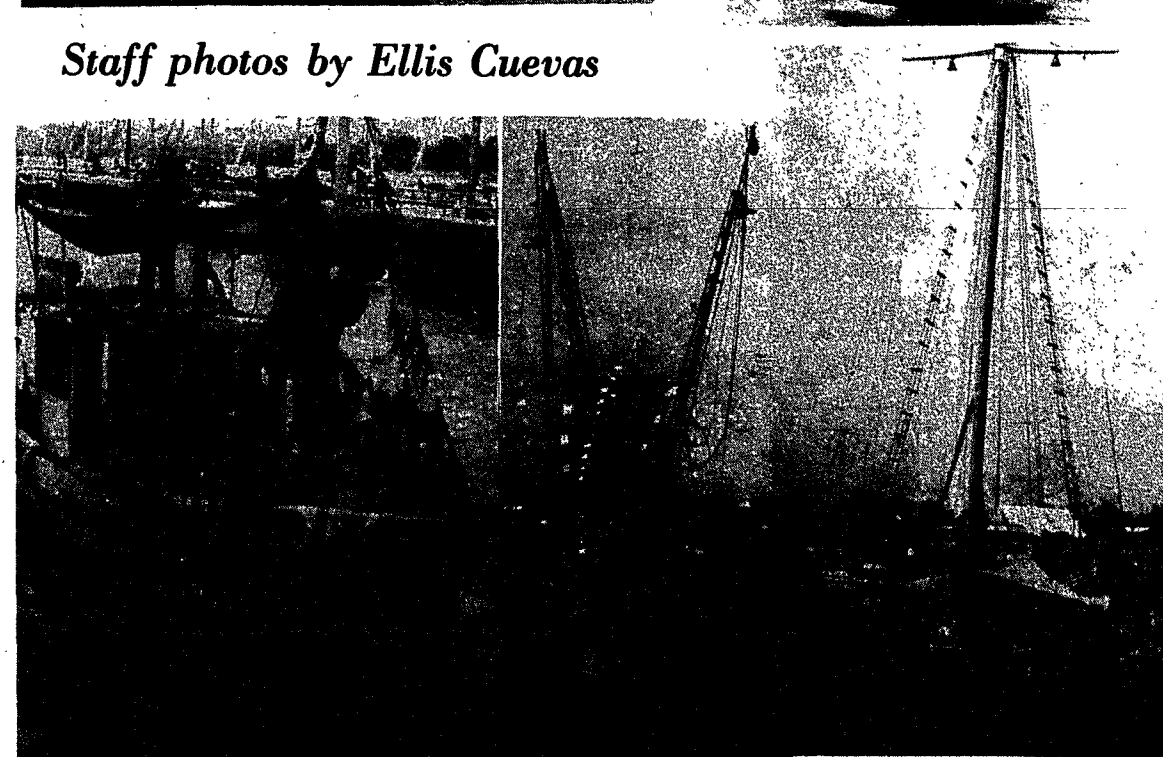

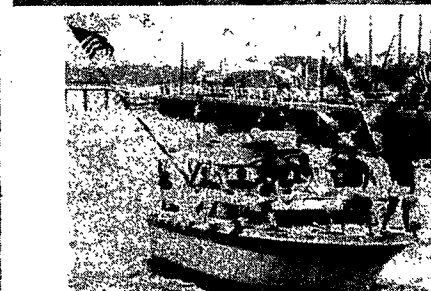

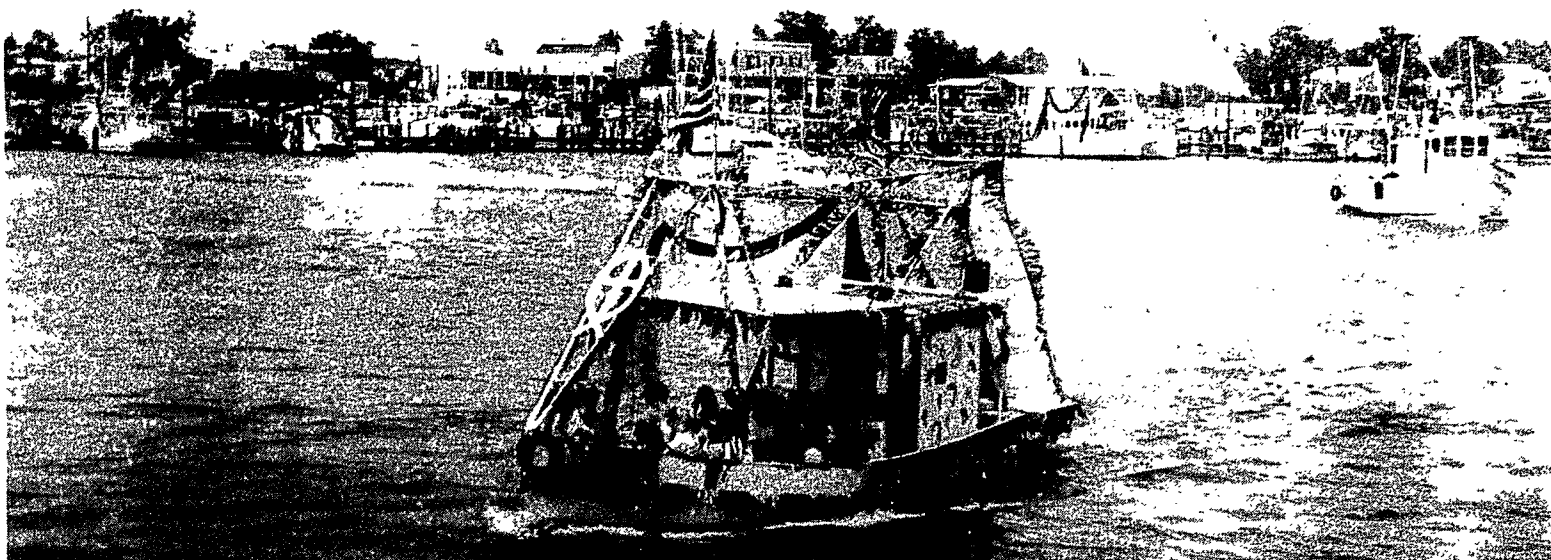

Vessels 35-50 feet: first place, Lucky Strike, second place, Ann Marie.

Vessels less than 35 feet: first place, Audrey's BO, second place, Shirley Lou.

Pleasure craft: first place, Lady C, second place, Tin Can.

Billy McDonald Trophy for an outstanding entry: Lady C.

Frank Daley Memorial Trophy; Lucky Strike.

MUSCLE SPASMS

Violent, involuntary contractions of a muscle or group of muscles initiate the painful condition of muscle spasms. They can occur in almost any muscle of the body. Most frequently they occur in the back, neck, stomach or bladder. Even the involuntary twitching of the eye lids, or eyelid spasms, is associated with muscle spasms. The single or riddle of their cause has been solved. As it has been shown that the majority of all muscle spasms are caused by nerve root pressure, even though there can be other aggravating factors, injections, muscle relaxants and traction are measures which give temporary relief but contribute little to the correction of the basic cause of nerve pressure. A chiropractic examination will get at the truth of the matter and application of spinal adjustments, if necessary, will permit the correction of the majority of these conditions. Prompt attention in this matter usually brings prompt results.

Carey announces registrations

HATTIESBURG— Opportunities for study in various areas will be offered on all three campuses of William Carey College this summer. Undergraduate programs are available from the college of arts and sciences, and the schools of business, education, music and nursing.

Graduate programs are also provided in business, education, music and psychology.

Registration will be held Thursday, May 29 from 1-6 p.m. in Gulfport; Friday, May 30 from 1-5 p.m. at the school of nursing in New Orleans; and Monday, June 2 from 9 a.m. - 2 p.m. in Hattiesburg. Registration for Hattiesburg evening courses only will be held Tuesday, June 3 at 6 p.m. on that campus. Student housing is now available on all three campuses, with new apartments at Carey on the Coast in Gulfport for single or married students. Church and youth groups may also take advantage of these apartments during the summer months.

For more information, call (601) 865-1500 in Gulfport, (504) 897-5906 in New Orleans, or (601) 582-6103 in Hattiesburg.

Public hearing scheduled on proposed accreditation system

The State Department of Education will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, June 4 to receive input on changes to the proposed Performance-Based Accreditation System, which includes the state curriculum structure. The hearing will be held in the Woolfolk State Office Building Auditorium from 7-9 p.m.

During the past year, the proposed system was field-tested in school districts throughout the state. Following the public hearing, the Commission on School Accreditation must approve a performance-based system. This system will then be presented for approval to the Board of Education at the board's June meeting.

Members of the commission will be present to accept testimony concerning the system. The following rules will apply:

1. All who wish to speak must sign a card at the entry of the room. The moderator will accept comments from individuals in the order in which they sign cards.

2. Comments will be recorded; however, all speakers are asked to submit typewritten copies of their comments. Each speaker will be given five minutes in which to make comments.

3. No defense of the work will be presented. The document stands as it is written pending the public hearing and State Board of Education Approval.

Due to time constraints, the record will be closed following the public hearing. However, typed comments will be accepted until June 5. Send these to the commission at P.O. Box 771, Jackson, MS 39205.

Copies of the proposed changes to the system have been distributed statewide and may be examined in the following locations: 1304 Walter Sillers Building, Jackson; and local public school superintendent's office.

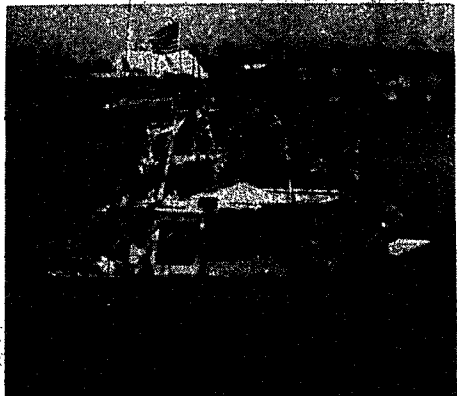

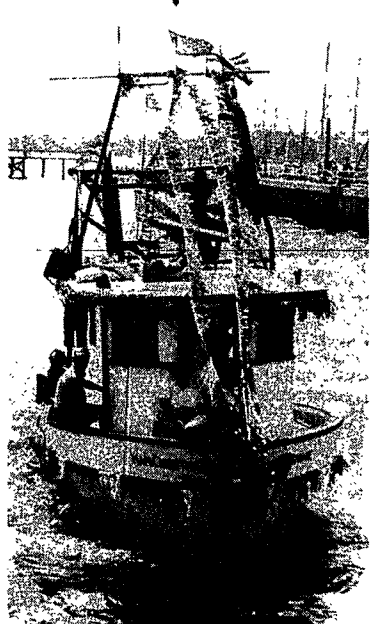

Honor students listed

Ole Miss

Students named to the University of Mississippi Chancellor's Honor Roll for the Spring Semester have earned a grade point average from 3.75 through 4.0 and are full-time students carrying at least 12 semester hours.

Honor roll members include Leigh Madden Atkins, Connally Michelle Compretta and Jeffrey Powers Von Liebermann, all of Bay St. Louis; and Mary Elizabeth Langebacker of Waveland.

WWL-TV honors valedictorians

For the third year, WWL-TV Channel 4, will honor "The Best of the Class," starting with a picnic to be held Monday, June 2 at Audubon Zoo.

A unique public service program, "The Best of the Class" salutes area high school valedictorians across the Gulf Coast viewing area for their academic achievements.

Channel 4 anchors Garland Robinette, Angela Hill and Jim Henderson will be on hand to congratulate the students. Honorees will receive commemorative certificates and special "Best of the Class" T-shirts as they play games and enjoy a picnic lunch.

The day of the event, students will be featured in videotaped public service announcements. Viewers will meet these promising young adults in several 30 and 60 second spots which start airing June 9 and will continue to air throughout the graduation season.

WWL-TV general manager J. Michael Early states, "By sponsoring 'The Best of the Class' for the third consecutive year, WWL-TV hopes to convey to students the worthiness of educational pursuits and to increase pride in our communities and schools."

The students honored as this year's "Best of the Class" come from all over southeast Louisiana and the Gulf Coast.

Honorees from the Bay St. Louis area include Kelly Ramsey of Bay Senior High School and Michael Yarbrough of St. Stanislaus.

YEARBOOK DEDICATION—Editors Matthew Cameron and Missy Johnson present a copy of Bay High's 1986 yearbook to retiring Superintendent J. D. McCullough to whom this year's issue is dedicated.

WWL-TV honors valedictorians

For the third year, WWL-TV Channel 4, will honor "The Best of the Class," starting with a picnic to be held Monday, June 2 at Audubon Zoo.

A unique public service program, "The Best of the Class" salutes area high school valedictorians across the Gulf Coast viewing area for their academic achievements.

Channel 4 anchors Garland Robinette, Angela Hill and Jim Henderson will be on hand to congratulate the students. Honorees will receive commemorative certificates and special "Best of the Class" T-shirts as they play games and enjoy a picnic lunch.

The day of the event, students will be featured in videotaped public service announcements. Viewers will meet these promising young adults in several 30 and 60 second spots which start airing June 9 and will continue to air throughout the graduation season.

WWL-TV general manager J. Michael Early states, "By sponsoring 'The Best of the Class' for the third consecutive year, WWL-TV hopes to convey to students the worthiness of educational pursuits and to increase pride in our communities and schools."

The students honored as this year's "Best of the Class" come from all over southeast Louisiana and the Gulf Coast.

Honorees from the Bay St. Louis area include Kelly Ramsey of Bay Senior High School and Michael Yarbrough of St. Stanislaus.

YEARBOOK DEDICATION—Editors Matthew Cameron and Missy Johnson present a copy of Bay High's 1986 yearbook to retiring Superintendent J. D. McCullough to whom this year's issue is dedicated.

Prevou honored at PRC graduation

Pearl River College graduated 335 students during the school's 76th commencement in Poplarville May 18.

The formal service was dedicated to retiring Pearl River College President Marvin R. White before a crowd of 3000. It officially marked the end of the 1985-86 school year for the Mississippi pioneer junior college.

Dr. Aubrey Keith Lucas, president of the University of Southern Mississippi, served as guest speaker for the event.

One hundred eighty-one students received associate degrees in arts and applied science and 204 students received certificates of proficiency. Last year an identical 385 graduated with 174 receiving associate degrees and 211 receiving certificates.

Associate degree graduates included 18 with special honors and 41 with honors. Certificate of proficiency recipients included 17 with special honors and 42 with honors.

Seven students were singled out during the commencement by PRC President White for making a perfect 4.0 grade point average or all A's during their two years at the River.

The scholarship graduates included academic graduates Sandra Lynn Gaines of Purvis; Angela Burks Hill, Picayune; and Gretta Ann Potter of Lumberton.

Vocational students making all A's included Mary Ann Wilson Prevou, Hancock Center; Truman Franklin Valentine, Poplarville Center; and Patricia Ann Roach and Sheila Ann Uher of the Forrest County Center.

Rev. Jack Gregory, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Poplarville, gave the invocation and Larry Tynes, superintendent of the Poplarville Special Municipal Separate School District gave the benediction.

Tyne also recognized Enoch Seal Jr., dean of academics, who is retiring after 35 years in the Pearl River College system.

Demand high for landscape architects

Every spring, thousands of brand-new college graduates find themselves competing fiercely for that coveted, well-paying job in their field of study.

But, many find opportunities scarce and competition tough in most fields — except those earning their degrees in landscape architecture.

According to landscape architects at Mississippi State University, there are far more jobs out there than graduates to fill them.

"Last May, we had 10 graduates in landscape architecture and 32 job offers," explained Charles Parks, head of the department at MSU. "That breaks down to an average of 3.2 job offers apiece."

Considering the keen competition of today's job market, those statistics are hard to believe. Some experts think since the profession is a relatively new one, many people don't know all that much about it. Also, people may not realize how many areas the term landscape architect can include.

"Graduates in landscape architecture work in a variety of situations, including government service, private practice firms and design-build firms," explained Pete Melby, associate professor of landscape architecture at MSU.

The design-build firm has the in-house capability to offer both design and contract installation services. This allows the landscape contractor to work in harmony with the landscape architect, since the contractor builds what the architect designs, according to Melby.

He cited this year's senior class projects as good examples of landscape architecture's diversification. The designs include a multi-use coastal development, a church camp, a resort development on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, a residential/club development, a campus master plan, a state park, a wildlife refuge master plan, an arboretum, and an historic restoration of the grounds at Longwood Plantation in Natchez.

With more established firms now hiring landscape architects, Parks sees nothing but blue skies ahead for the field.

"As we graduate more and more students, folks will find out about our area of expertise and they'll employ them," he said.

And, they won't work for chicken feed, either, by first-job standards. Parks said most starting salaries range from $16,000 to $24,000. He added, "Most landscape architects work up fairly fast, usually into associate positions."

Growing appreciation of the environment is adding to the worth of landscape architects; whether it's designing a backyard swimming pool, a country club golf course, or a shopping mall. And, both Parks and Melby agree — it's a seller's market for landscape architects.

St. Clare Church Fair slated

The St. Clare Fair Committee reports dates for the annual church fair are August 1, Seafood Dinner, 4 until 9 p.m.; and August 2 and 3, Fair Festivities, 4 p.m. until.

The Seafood dinner will be co-chaired by Mayor John Longo Jr., John Auderer, John Rutherford and Lee Ferrell. Rutherford will cook, and takeouts will be available.

One of the main attractions at the fair will be the Food Booth which is to be headed by Beverly Zimmerman.

Salem Cub program to include mothers

The New Orleans Area Council, Boy Scouts of America has announced a revision of one of its most successful summer Cub Scout programs.

The "Cub/Dad Weekend" has become "The Cub Scout Adventure" to meet the needs of more Cub Scouts and their parents.

With this change, mothers will have the opportunity to accompany their sons on any of the five-weekend campouts that will be held June and July at the Salem Scout Reservation in Hancock County.

A new temporary dining hall has been completed at the reservation and all meals for the participants in the "Cub Scout Adventure" will be prepared and served in this facility.

This will allow more time for the Cub Scouts and parents to enjoy other activities.

For more information, call the New Orleans Area Council Service Center at 504-865-9800 any day of the Salem camping schedule listed

The New Orleans Area Council, Boy Scouts of America announced the dates of the 1986 summer camping sessions at the Salem Scout Reservation which will be open for five one-week sessions beginning on June 8 and running through July 18.

Scouts will arrive on Sunday afternoon and camp at the reservation until the following Saturday morning.

During that period, they will have the opportunity to earn many merit badges plus they will have lots of free time for swimming, boating and fishing.

Many new programs are planned. Scouts and leaders will also have the option of meals prepared and served in the new temporary dining hall by the "Patrol Method" of meal preparation.

VOTE TABULATOR DEMONSTRATION

There will be a public demonstration of the vote counting equipment to be used in the June 3, 1986 elections. The demonstration will be held in the office of the Circuit Clerk at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, May 28, 1986.

UNDERSTANDING SOCIAL SECURITY AND MEDICARE

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE

by James Roosevelt, Chairman
The National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare

As many as 2.5 million Americans have the debilitating and ultimately fatal neurological illness known as Alzheimer's disease. By the year 2000, about one in eight Americans is expected to be at risk for this illness.

It's a progressive disorder of the brain affecting memory, thought and language. Change occurs gradually in brain cells, almost imperceptibly at first. As the disease progresses, simple forgetfulness increases to more noticeable loss of memory, and other changes occur in thought and behavior that can render the victim incapable of taking care of himself or communicating his needs to others. It can happen to anyone. Although it's most prevalent among the elderly, it's been known to strike people in their 20's.

The symptoms include memory loss, agitation, disorientation, personality changes, and loss of speech and coordination. In the final stages, the victim may become totally disabled. Not every victim gets every symptom or in the same sequence.

The cause of Alzheimer's disease is not known. Researchers are examining a number of theories including:

- Virus
- Chemical deficiency
- Genetic defect
- Immunological system deficiency
- Buildup of toxic minerals.

For a free booklet about the disease, "Alzheimer's - The Disease of the Century - A Guide to the Help-A-Caregiver's Guide to Alzheimer's Disease," you can write to an organization that works in Washington to further the interests of older Americans: The National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare. You can also get a free copy of its newspaper, Saving Social Security, if you write to the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, 1300 19th Street, N.W., Suite 260, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Mr. Roosevelt, the eldest son of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, worked as Secretary to the President in the White House when Social Security was established, and was a member of Congress when Medicare was enacted into law.

Remember the days when the "Blackberry Women" went through the streets of New Orleans and along the Coast as well, their tignons atop their heads, their luscious, just-picked berries nestled among fig leaves or other leaves in their straw baskets, crying their wares?

No longer do we hear that traditional sing-song of "Bla-aa-ack berries—fresh ripe berries, oh so good!" The day of the Blackberry Women, like so many other traditions, is gone—but the purple black berries, along with their kissin' cousins, the dewberries, are ripening all along the Coast—and what a treat they are!

Mine are late-ripening, and the small fry in the neighborhood, as well as the birds, are quicker than I, but I've garnered quite a goodly amount, and have the bramble scratches to prove it!

I like to eat the berries as I pick—which is the reason my elder brothers used to insist that I whistle all the while, for they knew that when the whistling stopped, "Sissy" was devouring the berries!

I also like the berries, just washed and topped with cream, or in a pie or tart or in pudding or even ice cream; but a very favorite way is so easy—just pour the berries, washed and ever so lightly sweetened, into a deep baking dish, then top with strips of pastry or biscuit dough or whole biscuits, so that the berries peep through, then bake in a moderate oven. That's the old-fashioned "cobler," dear to the heart and the palate through many generations.

Here's an easy

BLACKBERRY COBBLER

(Of course, it all depends upon how many blackberries you have on hand, how many servings you want, and so forth. But, for servings for four or six:)

1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup milk
3 Tbsp. shortening
1 cup flour
1/4 cup sugar, optional
2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1 quart blackberries
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon

Beat the egg lightly, add sugar, shortening and milk. Sift the baking powder, flour and salt together, and add to the first mixture, beating all together. Put the berries, sugar and cinnamon into a greased baking dish, and cover with the batter.

Bake at 375 degrees until done, approximately 45 minutes. Serve warm with cream.

The extra fourth cup of sugar may be added if you wish to pre-sweeten the blackberries, but I prefer mine less sweet.

Experts agree: Certified Angus Beef is the tenderest, best tasting beef in America. And now, by special arrangement with the American Angus Association this top quality beef is available to you at National Super Markets.

ONLY ONE IN FOUR IS GOOD ENOUGH
The Certified Angus Beef stamp of approval carries such high quality standards that only one in four, just 25% of all the Angus cattle tested, are accepted. By contrast, the USDA Choice rating is given to 90% of all beef graded. Even beef advertised as "Black Angus" offers no assurance that it could pass Certified Angus Beef inspections.

THE DIFFERENCE IS IN THE MARBLING
The difference between an average steak and a tender, juicy Certified Angus steak is the marbling — the small flecks of white throughout the beef. The marbling in Certified Angus Beef insures a better tasting cut of meat every time.

EVEN OUR TRIMMING IS SPECIAL
To make sure you get the very best value our meat department trims each cut of Certified Angus Beef to a maximum of 1/4 inch of fat. This not only saves you money but helps make Certified Angus Beef lower in cholesterol than skinless chicken.

LOOK FOR THE SHIELD
So, if you're looking for the best tasting beef in America, just look for the special Certified Angus Beef section in our fresh meat case. The Certified Angus Beef shield guarantees that you'll be serving beef that's better than USDA Choice, better than "Black Angus" and even more highly selected than USDA Prime.
